Go over another stile and then down the hill to the far left corner of the field where there is a hidden stile that goes onto the road. Turn right and carefully walk down the road and cross over to turn left down a lane, which takes you to a water treatment plant.

Go through the gate to the right and forward to go through a small gate next to a large one. Continue for a few steps but turn right before you get to a flat bridge crossing a stream that may be dry. Now walk with the river to your left and go down hill and over a stile and continue in the same direction over a field to come out on the road just before Middleham Bridge.

Carefully cross the bridge and then walk up the side of the road towards Middleham. ### Points of Interest

- A. This is the track of the Wensleydale Railway, which closed to passengers in 1954 and re opened in July 2003 between Leeming Bar and Leyburn. The line was extended to Redmire in 2004 and it is hoped one day to restore the rest so that the full 40 miles will eventually run between Northallerton and Garsdale.
- B. Middleham Castle was the home of Richard 111. It was of such importance that it was known as “The Windsor of the North”. Now in ruins it is still worth a visit as there are information boards in the grounds and wooden stairs and platforms where you can safely admire the views from the castle.
- C. Hello Bridge was where many paths crossed in ancient times. Maybe it got its name from travellers greeting one another!
- D. East Witton was almost destroyed by the plague in 1563. At the beginning of the 19th century it was rebuilt by the Earl of Aylesbury, the two lines of houses are set back from the large green which features quoits and an old water pump.
- E. The landlord of the Coverbridge Inn traditionally held the recipe for Wensleydale cheese. Today the Inn is a good place to have a meal or a drink.
- F. Middleham Lane was on one of the old Drovers routes. Cattle and Sheep were driven down from Scotland to feed the growing English cities. There was a ford near here to get across the river to Middleham.
